UNIVERSITY

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Hello, Rams,

If you're like me, you begin each day by scanning your inbox and social media feeds for positive news. Like patches of blue sky on a cloudy day, each sign gives us hope. For me, those bright spots are becoming easier to find. Hearts in windows, chalk art on neighborhood sidewalks, virtual parties on video chats. Separation seems to be bringing us together.

The Colorado State University Alumni Association has always tried to keep Rams connected to the University and each other, and that mission is more important than ever. Below, you can find links to virtual events, engagement opportunities, and resources for every Ram. You can also learn about ways you support CSU's infectious disease research efforts and help students in need during these uncertain times.

Stay healthy, stay stalwart, and Go Rams!

Kristi Bohlender (B.S., '93; M.B.A., '95)
Executive Director, Alumni Association

Looking for Ways to Help Students?

With the unknown rippling effects of the COVID-19 outbreak, we are asking Rams to come together to make a much-needed impact on our Colorado State University community. More than 1,800 students continue living on campus, and a gift to Ram Aid can help provide much-needed relief to those students and families, and many more, as we help them navigate these uncertain times.
